Summary

Regular quick online questionnaires can effectively assess and deliver results. These can be used to remind staff of company policies, legal or industry compliance regulations or product and service features and benefits.

The Create Your Own system module allows organisations to quickly create a bank of tests that align to the exact requirements of the core business and industry.

The module facilitates questions to be presented in up to 13 different presentations such as "True/False", "Multiple Choice" and many more, including images and audio files.

Question types can be mixed throughout each assessment to engage the candidate and encourage thought to be applied when responding.

Without the need for expensive investment in bespoke test development the easy to use administration allows exact questioning to be quickly developed and enhanced by the administrator.
